

Marvin Aushman YMCA Philanthropy Award Honoree

The YMCA of Frederick County honored Frederick resident Marvin E. Aushman with the Association's YMCA Philanthropy Award in ceremonies conducted at the Delaplaine Visual Arts Center on March 21st.

The son of a bricklayer, Marvin Aushman describes himself as a "builder," a "developer" - laboring for the betterment of the Frederick community.

After a successful career as a second-generation residential homebuilder and developer of thirty communities and 5,000 homes over the last forty years, Aushman has been for the past fifteen years a commercial developer and investor, devoting much of his time to the family's philanthropic endeavors. Marvin created the Aushman Family Trust in 2000, and the Aushman Family Foundation in 2006.

Marvin Aushman has strengthened the fabric of the community by his leadership and service on the governing boards of the County's Affordable Housing Council, Chamber of Commerce, Community Foundation, Federated Charities, Habitat for Humanity, Frederick Memorial Hospital System, Frederick Community College, and the YMCA of Frederick County. He is a founder of BlueRidge Bank and a life Director of the National Association of Homebuilders.

Marvin Aushman's philanthropy, benefiting those whom the YMCA of Frederick County serves, was witnessed dramatically this past year as the Aushman Family Foundation made an unprecedented $500,000 grant for flood relief to the YMCA.

The philanthropy of Marvin Aushman and the Aushman Family Foundation will be realized for many tomorrows through the YMCA - nurturing the potential of every child and teen, improving our community's health and well-being, and giving back and providing support to neighbors.
